The game will be called promptly at 7:30 to-night, at which time the Paris rooters will be on hand to give their favorites a warm welcome. The Maysville team is composed of good players, and will also receive "the glad hand" here from patrons of the game who appreciate clean sport.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

At a recent meeting of the Board of Officers of the Paris Christian Church, the following resolutions of respect to the memory of Mr. John T. Hinton, for years one of the faithful and most earnest members of the church, were read and adopted by a unanimous vote:

"As members of the Board of Officers of the Paris Christian Church, of which body Mr. John T. Hinton, Sr., was a long and honored member, we desire to express our deepest regret at his loss and to give expression to our feelings of appreciation for his great service and worth to the church.

"For over forty years he has been a member of this church and through all these years his devotion has been beautiful and inspiring. We recognize him, not only as one of the church's most distinguished members, but likewise as one of God's truest noblemen. He loved the church with an ardent devotion and was never absent from its services from choice. He leaned upon it for support and expected through the church to enter the eternal home at last. He found his greatest joy in giving and serving for his glory.

"And now that he has finished his testimony here and gone to his home above, we wish to record here our deep sense of loss in the departure of this great and good man, whose untiring zeal for the church and unflagging interest in its work have done so much to make the church what it is to-day.

"He was a wise counsellor, a helpful advisor and a safe guide in hours of trial. His gentle wisdom, loving sympathy and good judgment fitted him preeminently for the place which he occupied in the church as a leader in all its business and social and moral interests. The community has lost one of its most distinguished citizens, the church an invaluable member and the home one whose place can never be filled.

"We would express our sincerest sympathy to his family. The loss here is irreparable. But to have had such a father and such a husband is distinction enough for any family. The community, too, will miss him because he was interested in everything that looked toward the betterment of mankind. But the church above all else will miss him because of his minute interest in every detail of its welfare and work. It was his very meat and drink. His love for it was beautiful. His interest in it intense. His service for it was untiring.

"The memory of his devotion to his church it an inspiration to us—his fellow workers. And speaking from the shadow of that memory we call upon Our Heavenly Father to help us to be more faithful and efficient in the service of our Lord and Saviour. This great and good man has gone away from us, but his influence lingers with us to cheer and help.

"We deplore his loss, we honor his memory, and we confidently expect to meet him at no distant day in that home above where partings are no more.

"R. F. CLENDENIN, Chairman.
"F. P. LOWRY.
"W. E. ELLIS.
"J. J. VEATCH."

MRS. MABEL FRANK'S WILL IS PROBATED.

In the County Court, Tuesday, the last will and testament of Mrs. Mabel Russell Frank, of Paris, whose tragic death by burning at the home of her mother, Mrs. Charles Barnett, near Taylorsville, in Spencer county, was recorded in THE NEWS, was admitted to probate. The will bore date of May 28, 1918, and was witnessed by Robert C. Talbott and Wade H. Whitley.

The instrument provides that in case Russell Frank marries and the wife and children survive at his death, they are to divide the estate, half to the wife and the remaining half of the estate to the children.

In case Russell Frank dies without a wife or child, the estate is then to be divided into two equal parts, one part to go to the heirs of Mrs. Frank's late husband, Mr. Burton A. Frank, and the remaining one-half to testatrix's two sisters, Mrs. Chas. Wilmoth, of Paris, and Mrs. John Barnes, of Mt. Sterling.

The will devised to Burton Amende Frank, son of Julian Frank, who was named for Mrs. Frank's deceased husband, the sum of $1,000. The will names the brothers and sisters of her deceased husband and those of her side of the family, Mrs. Macie White Fithian, Mrs. Kate Barnes and Mrs. Louise Wilmoth, as legatees of the will in the event her son, Russell Frank, dies without issue. In either event she leaves to Miss Emma Lou Scott, under certain conditions, the sum of $2,000.

A codicil attached to the will and written a short time before Mrs. Frank's death, left $2,000 outright to Mrs. Frank's aunt, Mrs. Macie White Fithian, of Paris.

The Bourbon-Agricultural Bank & Trust Co., Tuesday qualified as administrators of the estate with the will annexed, bond being fixed at $50,000, without surety, no security being required under the Trust Co.'s charter, the law dispensing with same.

BETTER THAN TOBACCO MONEY

Go to the Lovell sale and buy that sorghum mill. It will make you more money than tobacco. Read the big ad in THE NEWS. Geo. D. Speakes and M. F. Kenney Auctioneers.

PARIS BANKS TO BE CLOSED TOMORROW.

To-morrow, Saturday, February 22, will be the anniversary of the birthday of George Washington, American's first President—"first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen." The day will be a holiday, and as such will be observed by the banks of Paris. These institutions will be closed all day. Make your financial arrangements accordingly, and secure your "change" to-day.

WILL OF CAPT. REUBEN HUTCHCRAFT PROBATED.

The last will and testament of Capt. Reuben B. Hutchcraft, who was killed in action on the battlefield in France last July, was admitted to record and probated in the County Court, Wednesday. The document is a very short one, and is dated Paris, Ky., Aug. 25, 1917.

Had Capt. Hutchcraft's mother died first, Transylvania University, of Lexington, would have received that portion of his estate, other than that he would have received from his mother's estate. The will follows:

"I bequeath all of my property of every sort to my mother. Should my mother die before I do then I bequeath my property, which I myself receive from her estate to my two sisters and the balance of my property to Transylvania University. I nominate James McClure executor of the will and ask that he consider my salary allotment as a part of the estate.

(Signed)
"REUBEN HUTCHCRAFT, JR."

Mr. James McClure qualified as executor of the estate, by furnishing bond in the sum of $20,000, with W. W. Haley and John T. Hedges, Hord Mann and John T. Hedges as appraisers of the estate.

REAL ESTATE BEST PAYING INVESTMENT NOW.

Money invested in real estate, especially suburban property, is now one of the safest and best investments for idle capital. On Saturday, Feb. 22, Dr. J. A. Gilkey will offer at public sale at the court house door in Paris, Ky., a most desirable lot of property, two small farms, well and conveniently located in the suburbs of Paris. This property is closely described in the big display advertisement published in this issue of THE NEWS. Read the ad and attend the sale. (7-5t)

YOUNG GIRL CASHING CHECKS WITH MOTHER'S NAME

Checks, purporting to have been signed by her mother, a well-known Paris woman residing on High street, have been cashed by various Paris merchants in the last few days for a young girl of the school age. The checks have been pronounced forgeries when returned to the Paris woman, who upon investigation, to her horror, found that the forger was her own daughter.

For the protection of the public the police have the young woman under surveillance, and if any more of the forged checks turn up, she will be taken into custody. The amounts which the merchants had unwittingly advanced on the supposedly good checks, have been made good by the girl's mother, but if the incident happens again, it is likely there will be prosecution in the courts.

EDITORIAL MUSINGS.

A Glorious Dissatisfaction.

Are you satisfied with Paris as it is to-day? Do you think it has progressed sufficiently and that we can now afford to rest and let it go at that? If we all think that way the old town would not only stop, but it would surely sink into decay.

"Let well enough alone" never built a new dam or took over an electric light or a water plant or induced new enterprises, giving employment to hundreds of workers, to come into our territory. Strict adherence to that sort of doctrine would have kept you and me and all who would follow us, in a cave with a never-ending struggle with beasts of prey and enemy tribes. But dissatisfaction of our ancestors with existing order, gave us all the advantages we are now able to enjoy. And in your desire and my desire for a better town and a better world there is all the future progress and accomplishment of our city and of the world.

The man of the stone age said:
"I want to do better than this; I am not satisfied." And dissatisfaction pushed him on and up. It changed his spear, that he could hurl but a few yards, to the rifled cannon that shoots a distance of many miles. It changed that canoe of bark to the floating palaces and the modern dreadnaught. It gave us the means of going to the ocean's bottom and far up into the frigid heights of the air. It has given us all that we enjoy and appreciate to-day. The human mind is incapable of comprehending the heights to which we may ascend in the thousands of years to come.

Heaven help the country, the town, or the individual in which habit is stronger than dissatisfaction, for there we see all kinds of improvements come to an end. If there were no such thing as dissatisfaction and unrest we still would eat our vanquished enemies and our conquerors would eat us. If the colonies had accepted the oppression of kings as just, America would still be only a "possession." So with Paris and ourselves: We must move, but always forward and never backward. We must revive the Commercial Club and other organizations that have sunk into rest because of the war activities. Bless the agitators, call them kickers, if you wish, for they have built the city of Paris and have helped to keep it going. Let us long and work for better Paris, better streets, better everything that will contribute toward making a better Paris and better Parisians.

The person or town that can see no room for improvement falls in with the animal that always has and always will be, just an animal. Curiosity and dissatisfaction are the motive powers that push us out of the hole of content. So let us all keep alive within our being dissatisfaction with ourselves and with Paris —unless there is progress all along the line.

"Provide Work, Not Charity."

It is almost tragic to note the lone hand being played by men like Secretary of the Interior Franklin K.
Lane, who recognizes the importance of providing industrial employment.
When war and destruction were in the air there were untold billions of public money ready to meet every call; whereas the country is going headlong toward industrial depression, and the Democracy of Peace is cut short in appropriation bills. Secretary Lane declares that in the transition from war to peace there may be an interval of hard times.
To meet emergencies that may arise the nation could afford to expend the billion dollars in profitable ways.

PUBLIC AUCTION

—OF—

Two Desirable Small Farms!

Having purchased a larger farm, I will sell at public auction, at the Court House door in Paris, Ky., at eleven o'clock a. m., on Saturday, Feb. 22, 1919

two desirable suburban small farms, lying adjacent to the city of Paris, either of which will make a most desirable money maker for persons looking for small farms.

No. 1 Contains 7 Acres of Land located on Howard's Lane, just off Second Street, beyond the limits of Paris. Five acres of this land will grow tobacco, the remaining two acres is improved with a new tobacco barn and three good rent houses. The land is well watered and will make an ideal little home.

No. 2 Contains 14.94 Acres of Good, Deep Soil located on the Georgetown pike, in the edge of Paris, and adjoining the land of Mr.

Lee Cox. This small farm is unimproved, but has some good tobacco land, and the remainder will raise most anything it is planted in. There is a large frontage on the pike to this small tract of land, making it most desirable either as a cultivating farm or for the purpose of sub-dividing and selling off in smaller tracts.

One-third cash upon delivery of the deed, the balance in one and two years, deferred notes to bear 6 per cent interest.

Public Sale of Fine Tobacco Land

Saturday, February 22, 1919, at 2 O'clock

As agents for one of the heirs of the late Amos Turney, we will sell on the above date on the premises on the Paris and Maysville pike, one and one-half miles from the city limits of Paris, Ky.,

140 ACRES OF OLD HEAVY BLUE GRASS SOD LAND

This tract is one of the best opportunities for tobacco growers so far placed before the public. No tobacco or hemp was ever grown on this land and not a foot of it has been plowed in twenty-five years. There is no waste land on the place. It lays well, is well watered and fenced and has five-room tenant house. It is opposite New Forest Station on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and is ripe and ready for tobacco culture. It is the cream of Bourbon county soil fertility. Prospective buyers will be shown the farm. The farm will be sold in two tracts of about equal parts, both of which face on the Maysville pike and both with beautiful building sites. The farm will then be sold as a whole and the highest bid accepted.
The terms of the sale will be announced on the day of the sale. Sale positive rain or shine.

LETTERS FROM BOURBON COUNTY SOLDIERS AND SAILORS

Under date of January 13, Leo Gresche, of Paris, writes to his brothers, Joseph, Henry and Will Grosche, in this city, from Chagny, France, where he is a member of the American Expeditionary Force, as follows:

"Chagny, Sone et Loire, France.

January 13, 1919.
Dear Folks: Just got through chasing down the track carrying water to a French coal car that was beginning to sing from the blaze of a hot box, and now I guess I'll start a letter. Am going to attempt to write one letter, or at least a part of a letter, each night, and see if I can't hold up my end of it better.

"We have had one snow here, but didn't last long enough to even show up on the ground. On several mornings, though, the mountain tops have been white with snowfall. I just suppose it rains here all winter. At least it seems to me that we have had rain about every day since I have been in France.

"We hear now that the division we are in is to be put out of existence, as far as the United States Railway men are concerned, and that we will be transferred to another part of France. I suppose, though, the above is just another one of the rumors that are constantly flying around over here. If we're not going home, I hope the rumor is really true, because we have had enough of this one vicinity, Chagny. Have not seen all of France yet that I would like to see. I am going to put in my application to-morrow for a seven-days' leave of absence. I want to see Lyons, Nice, Marseilles, Monte Carlo, and get a chance to get closer to the Italian and Swiss borders. That's a lot to see in seven days, and I really don't know if it can be done. Lyons is only three or four hours run from here, and if Marseilles is on the route from here to Nice (I'm not sure about that being the case, either) I believe I can get a better idea of Southern France from Nice, and I would be willing to give up my trip to Marseilles.

"Monte Carlo is only a few miles from Nice, and the Italian border is only a few miles from Monte Carlo, but the Swiss border is quite a ways north again, and I don't know if I can make that this time. I suppose before I get through I will have to get it out of my head that I can see all of France in seven days. I figure on having two hundred francs when I start. That's only about $36.00, and in spite of the fact that my expenses will be paid, it's not a great big lot of money, because any side trips I may take outside of the 'leave' ones I select, will have to be paid out of my own pocket. When a fellow does get out of Uncle Sam's army he is certainly going to know the real value of an American dollar. He will then be able to stretch it forty different ways, spend it all, and then have some left.

"From all accounts the surrender of the German Navy was some blow to the Vaterland. Well, it is in good hands now, and will be put to some decent use. Long trains of German freight cars are as common a sight on this road as the cars of the Louisville & Nashville are to you at home. There is also a great many German engines over here, with German crews running them. I haven't yet had one of the latter to pass while I was on duty. You will have to hand it to the Germans on their railway equipment. Their freight cars are very small, but, believe me, it is all well-built stuff, and has the French-built cars beat forty ways. I was looking through one of their combination caboose and baggage cars last night. It was a steel car filled with all sorts of conveniences for the men, with a nice writing desk for the conductor, and with a minimum of waste space. Their engines, I understand, even have a small compartment on each side of the boiler, one for heating food and the other for cooking. Haven't had a chance as yet to examine their passenger equipment, but from passing appearances it looks like pretty good material. But the names on some of their freight cars would choke a crow to death. All these cars have the Imperial German eagle painted on them.

"Well, I'll have to close now, and wait for another chance to get in the letter-writing game. With love and best wishes to all, I am
"Affectionately,
"LEO."

The following letter has been received by THE NEWS from Ensign J. Monroe Sweeney, son of Mrs. Jno. S. Sweeney, who is now stationed on the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, the flagship of the fleet now in Cuban waters under command of Admiral Mayo. "Punk's" chief delight was found in the fact that where he is stationed is in the vicinity of seven baseball grounds, and the season is about to open. The letter follows:

"Guantanamo Bay, Cuba,
February 10, 1919.

"Dear News—Just a few lines to ask you to rush THE NEWS to me at once. I had hoped to secure my release upon my return to Norfolk, but was ordered last Monday night to report to the fleet Tuesday morning, when it left for Cuban waters. I am stationed on the U. S. S. Pennsylvania, which is the flagship of the fleet with Admiral Mayo in command. When we left Hampton Roads, Va., the fleet consisted of twelve of the largest battleships in the U. S. Navy. In a day or two the North Dakota joined us a day out from Guantanamo, which now makes the unlucky thirteen. But I'm not the least bit superstitious. I understand that the New Mexico will be here after she brings President Wilson home.

"Guess we will be here until about the fifteenth of April. I sincerely hope it will be 'homeward-bound' after that time, for there is just one Bourbon county, and there is just one Paris, Kentucky, and you can tie to it, much less try to beat it. I like it down here much better than I thought I would, except for the heat. Every day the mercury registers from ninety to one hundred in the shade, and it never rains here, I believe. Yesterday was about 105 in the shade at Caimenera, where some of us went to spend a few hours.

"The national pastime seems to be chicken fighting, and rum drinking. They had an old 'spick' orchestra (???) of four pieces, and their latest musical hit was, 'Don't Bite The Hand That's Feeding You.' I will not try to describe some of their customs, but will bring you pictures of them. Hope to get over to San Diego soon, but don't think we will get to see Havana, as that is about six hundred miles from here. Guess the boys are returning pretty fast from overseas now. Hope our friend, Andrew Jackson Turney, is one of them, and only regret that I am not one of the fortunate ones, too, but am living for the coming of April.

"There are about seven baseball grounds here, and the season is about to open, so you see we will have something to occupy our time. The series of games between the crack teams of the fleet will start this week, and you know, I will be in the game at some part of it.

"With best wishes and warmest regards to all the boys, and especially to the boys in THE NEWS office, and with a warning about sending THE NEWS so that I will not miss an issue, I hope to remain,
"Very Sincerely,

"PUNK.

CAN WE DO ANYTHING FOR THESE PESTS?

Complaints are heard all the time of the reckless and unsanitary way in which some people who are supposed to be possessed of ordinary intelligence violate all the known rules of decency and good health by expectorating in public places. THE NEWS has endeavored in every way possible to wake the community up to a sense of ever-present danger which lurks in this careless habit. We have received the following communication, to which we gladly give space, because of its timeliness and the rebuke it contains:

"Paris, Ky., Feb. 17, 1919.
"Ed THE NEWS:

"I desire to voice my protest against the very disgusting and very unsanitary habit of people who expectorate on the floors of street cars, restaurants and other public places. In the case of the street car, no doubt the conductor observes this, but it seems that he does not take any interest in upholding the law, or else has his own troubles on his mind. However, we have a law on the ordinance books of the city prohibiting spitting on the sidewalks and an official order from the City Board of Health prohibiting spitting in theatres and public places, but absolutely no attention is paid to either. There is no doubt in the world that these orders are violated in this city every day.

"The worst part of the whole matter is that men (should I say men?) who have the appearance of having ordinary horse sense are the guilty ones. We should have a more stringent method of attending to these fellows who so flagrantly violate the law. Even to say nothing of the unsanitary side of the question, the vulgarity of it is by no means to be overlooked.

"Charles Dickens, in touring the United States, criticized the American people very severely in regard to their promiscuous spitting. Surely if this writer brought the matter to our attention many, many years ago, it seems to me that we should know better by this time. I would like to see the day when any person found guilty of spitting on the floor of a street car, any public conveyance, on the floors of any public place could be found breaking rock for the city or the county for about thirty days. It seems no moral suasion will affect them because of their utter indifference and selfishness."

HOUSTONVILLE SCHOOL BURNED. LOSS PLACED AT $20,000.

The school building at Houstonville, completed in September at a cost of $20,000, was entirely destroyed by fire. The fire started in the furnace room. There was $10,000 insurance on the building. A year ago the three-story brick on the site was wrecked by a hurricane and ruined.

GETTING RID OF COLDS.

The easiest way to get rid of a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This preparation has been in use for many years and its value fully proven. No matter what remedy you use, however, care must be taken not to contract another cold before you have recovered from the first one, and there is serious danger in this. A man of middle age or older should go to bed until fully recovered. It is better to stay in bed three days at the start than three weeks later on. (adv-Feb.)

Look before you leap. Be sure you are right, and then take another look.

Take a few doses of Chamberlain's Tablets for indigestion, and you will soon forget about your stomach troubles. Try it. (Adv. Feb.)

Paris Experiences Going Back For Six Years.

Kidney weakness can be cured. But what caused it once will cause it again.

Here's a Paris woman who has had several attacks. Several times in four years Mrs. Newman has used Doan's Kidney Pills.

She says that Doan's have never failed her.

Six years ago Mrs. Newman publicly endorsed Doan's.

She now confirms her statement. What better proof of merit?

Proved by years of experience. Told by Paris people.

This is convincing testimony. Mrs. G. W. Newman, East Tenth street, says: "I had backache and headaches and at times was very nervous. My kidneys were weak and inactive."

"I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and used them and they soon had me feeling better in every way."

Mrs. Newman gave the above account of her experience with Doan's Kidney Pills on January 17, 1912, and on November 9, 1916, she said: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills at times when I find it necessary. I have always received the same good results, although I do not have so much trouble as I used to."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Newman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv)

REV. ELLIS TRIBUTE TO CAPT. HUTCHCRAFT.

Reuben Hutchcraft is dead, and the author drops his pencil, the merchant his yardstick, the laborer his pickaxe, the child its toy and the State its eulogium. Taking it all in all, I think it is the saddest death of any public man in the history of our great State. So young and gallant and brilliant and useful, so full of service and hope and promise for the State, and such a tower of strength and help and comfort to his family. Let neither pen nor tongue by useless review or unbrotherly criticism add one drop to old Kentucky's cup of grief. It is brimful already.

I can not as a minister of the most high God and the pastor of this gallant young hero allow such a life to be passed and such a death to be witnessed without, as far as I may, prolonging the echo. And in paying this tribute to our friend, let me say, we have a higher motive than simply the relief and gratification of personal feelings. We consider his character as singularly instructive to young men and it is for these chiefly that we make this record.

He was born in our little city of Paris thirty-two years ago and was the object of singular and never failing affection and kindness on the part of a devoted father and mother and two sisters, whom he requited with strong filial attachment and devotion. His early experiences in school life soon gave evidence of a strong and incisive mind and he endeavored himself to his instructors by his industry, modesty, love of truth and steady improvement, which led him to attain to the position of highest honor in his class record. He entered Transylvania College in 1902, graduating as honor man in a large class in 1907. He later entered the law school of Harvard College and after three years of diligent labor distinguished himself with honors here also by his unremitting application. On returning to his home he began the practice of his profession in his home town and by his consistent character and social virtues and persistent application to duty won for himself the confidence and esteem of all who knew him. The progress of his reputation as a lawyer was soon a matter of common remark and those who were most capable of understanding the depths and extent of his legal attainments, were confident that, should his life be spared, he would attain the highest honors of his profession.

But he fell on the battlefields of France, November 6, 1919, from a bullet wound from a machine gun at the hands of the most barbarous and dastardly foe that civilized Nation ever encountered. But he fell at his post of duty leading the world-famous Rainbow Division to victory. The extent of his influence and the intensity of feeling of admiration for him are shown by the hundreds of letters that have come pouring in to his family from all parts of the State and many from other States expressing sympathy and affection for our dead hero.

What is it that has won for him this place of affection and admiration in so many hearts? It is of that we would speak this afternoon.

And first of all, we shall speak of his well-balanced mind which was the admiration of his friends. He had strong feeling, but yet a calm judgment. He had unwearied activity without restlessness or precipitancy. He had vigor and freedom of thought, but not the slightest propensity to rash and wild speculation. He had professional ardor, but did not sacrifice to his profession the general improvement of his intellect and heart. He loved study and equally loved society. He had religious sensibilities, but a sensibility that never rested until it had found its true perfection and manifestation in practice. His mind was singularly harmonious, a well adjusted whole, and this was the secret of the signal confidence which he inspired. Some of his professors at whose feet he sat have said of him that he had the keenest mind they had ever come into touch with.

In speaking of the more prominent characteristics in his life and character we can not but feel that his religious life must have a prominent place. Because he had been a member of the church from early boy-hood and wanted to be identified with the work of the church of which he was a member in its every effort to serve. He had been a teacher in the Sunday school, an active worker in the Christian Endeavor Society in his boyhood days and never forgot the early lessons he had learned in his Christian home.

My acquaintance with him began something less than ten years ago and my admiration for him has grown more and more as I have learned to know better and have been able to see into the depths of his great soul. I have learned to love him for what he is and for what he stood for. His soul responded to the call for service as the needle responds to the pole star. As a citizen he ever measured up to the highest standards of citizenship and ever sought to promote the best interests of his country for which he finally gave his life. Interested in every thing that looked toward the betterment of our people and the prosperity of our State he sought to contribute in every way to its well being. He sought to make his laws better and to equalize her taxes and to uplift her citizenship in every possible way.

As a man true to all the nobler impulses of his erect manhood and never swerving from the path of duty pointed out by an intelligent mind and a devoted heart.

As a soldier, modest and gallant and brave. An officer that was loved and honored by his men whom he ever led, even when danger confronted them, and never found wanting at the crucial moment.

Along toward the end of the Argonne battle the crucial test came. Colonel Hough called for a patrol to traverse the road to Sedan to obtain certain information. The task fell to Captain Hutchcraft's company. The Lieutenant that commanded the platoon was off duty that day. The work assigned was dangerous—extremely dangerous, and Captain Hutchcraft was slow to assign another platoon commander to the task, although he had the power to do so. There were a number of other Lieutenants there. Should he ask one of these to go or go himself on this most dangerous mission? He was not long in answering, for he was soon leading his Boy Scouts, as they were called, over the road toward Sedan. As they advanced they were fired upon by German machine guns and it finally became necessary for Captain Hutchcraft and his Boy Scouts to charge the machine guns for the protection of their own lives, and in so doing many of them were killed, among them was the brave and gallant young hero, Captain Hutchcraft, who fell within twenty feet of the enemies trenches, leading his brave boys to victory. As he fell facing the enemy he cried out, "boys, you've got me, but don't give up, push on and victory is yours." Spurred on by their gallant leader's dying words, his brave men drove out the dastardly Huns at the point of the bayonet, taking prisoners all who were not killed.

But their brave and gallant leader had fallen. The battlefields of France that had claimed the blood of countless thousands of other of the bravest and the best had come to claim the good Anglo-Saxon blood of one of Kentucky's brightest and best young heroes. And it became the painful duty of this little company of Boy Scouts to bear Captain Hutchcraft's body back a few miles to a little village not far from Sedan, where it was laid to rest with appropriate military ceremony, with Colonel Hough and his battalion in attendance, and the French women covered his grave and the cross at its head with beautiful flowers, which they had brought in great profusion as an expression of their grief and sorrow, and his body rests to-day in beautiful France, the land of flowers, where the dead are held in eternal reverence.

The muffled drum's sad roll has beat
The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few.
On fame's eternal camping-ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And glory guards, with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead.

The neighboring troop, the flashing blade,
The bugle's stirring blast,
The charge, the dreadful cannonade,
The din and shout, are past;
Nor war's wild note nor glory's peal
Shall thrill with fierce delight
Those breasts that never more may feel
The rapture of the fight.

Sons of the dark and bloody ground,
Ye must not slumber there,
Where stranger steps and tongues respond
Along the heedless air.
Your own proud land's heroic soil
Shall be your fitter grave;
She claims from war his richest spoil—
The ashes of her brave.

Rest on, embalmed and sainted Dead!
Dear as the blood ye gave;
No impious footsteps here shall tread
The herbage of your grave;
Nor shall your memory be forgot
While fame her record keeps,
Or honor points the hallowed spot
Where valor proudly sleeps.

Yon marble minstrel's voiceless stone
In deathless song shall tell,
When many a vanished age hath flown,
The story how ye fell;
Nor wreck, nor change, nor winter's blight,
Nor time's remorseless doom,
Shall dim one ray of glory's light
That glids your deathless tomb.

His career though brief and brilliant leaves a record of gallantry and faithfulness and courage that should be an inspiration to the young men of the nation and a rich heritage to his family.

He was fairly worshipped by his men whom he affectionately called his Boy Scouts because they were small of stature like himself and

NATION-WIDE RED CROSS PEACE PROGRAM NEARLY READY

Lake Division officials of the American Red Cross have been asked to be ready to do their part in launching the nation-wide Red Cross Peace Program soon to be announced.

Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky chapters that have helped in the war-time Red Cross work for humanity will be called on to develop through the peace Red Cross an even wider service than has ever been attempted by any organization.

Working out the details of such an extensive program necessarily takes time. National headquarters depend on the loyalty and patience of the chapters during the transaction period which is almost over.

Mrs. August Belmont, assistant to the chairman of the Red Cross War Council and formerly well known as Miss Eleanor Robson says, "We only know that we are going on and that the Peace Program will be very great. So we must wait patiently until the new orders are sent out."

DREADFUL COUGH CURED.

A severe cold is often followed by a rough cough for which Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has proven especially valuable. Mrs. F. W. Olson, Marysville, Mo., writes: "About two years ago my little boy Jean caught a severe cold and coughed dreadfully for days. I tried a number of cough medicines but nothing did him any good until I gave him Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It relieved his cough right away and before he had finished taking one bottle he was cured. I think it is just fine for children." (adv-Feb.)

One of the mysteries of reconstruction is the rapid fall in the price of standard foods without lowering the cost any. It's like a miracle.

Those Washington suffragettes would look less out of place picketing a bug-house.

EXTRA LONG WEAR FROM SHOES

T. D. Collins of Oskala, Hawaii, makes a remarkable statement which demonstrates the money-saving durability of Neolin Soles.

He writes, "After wearing a pair of Neolin-soled shoes off and on for thirty-three months, I wore them on a trip to the volcano of Kilauea and walked around the crater over hot lava six times and still the soles showed only slight signs of wear."

This experience is not accidental. It results from the scientific process by which Neolin Soles are made to be exactly what soles should be—comfortable, waterproof and exceedingly economical because of the long wear they give.

Get them on new shoes for all members of the family and have them put on worn shoes. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wincefoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

GET HEN'S EGGS.

Many "egg substitutes" have been sold over grocery counters since eggs went sky-high in prices. Some of these articles have been labeled to leave the customer under the impression that they are as good in the preparation of food as fresh eggs. The experts at the Kentucky Experiment Station and at Washington have analyzed many of these substitutes and find them far below eggs in food value, while some are of practically no food value.

BULL CLUBS ORGANIZED.

Carroll County, Ky., is becoming interested in Bull Clubs. Two clubs have already been organized and the prospects are bright for others in the near future. The County Board of Agriculture has recommended that 12 or 15 bulls be placed through the formation of clubs. Hereforders appear to be the farmers' choice of breeds.

FOOD ADMINISTRATION WITH-DRAWS ALL EGG REGULATIONS.

All special regulations applying to egg dealers and cold storage of eggs, including fixed price margins, have been withdrawn by the food administration.

Dealers and storage men still are subject to licensing, and officials pointed out that withdrawal of important regulations did not affect the provisions of the food control act against profiteering and wasteful practices.

REV. ELLIS' TRIBUTE TO CAPT. HUTCHCRAFT.

who had so faithfully followed him in so many hard fought battles, and who were following him just as faithfully when he fell. He fell, as we have said, within twenty feet of the foe, forging his way forward and leading his men to victory, and the world-hated Hun hissed for joy when he saw our gallant leader bite the dust. But boast not, oh, thou demon of the pit, if our hero is dead the principles he advocated live. Elisha may be buried, but we keep his grave open and we shall let down the cause for which he fought and bled and died until touching his bones, and those of other heroes like him, it shall spring up with tenfold power and go forth for the conquest of the world.

This most splendid young man has been taken from us and taken without warning when our hope was firmest and his prospect of usefulness and prosperity were to human eyes unclouded. And we sorrow that such a life should be brought to such an untimely end. But ought we to think it short?

In the best sense his life was long. To be the center of so many influences for good, to awaken through so large a circle sentiments of affection and esteem; to hear such strong testimony to the reality of religion; to exalt the standard of youthful character; to adorn a profession to which the administration of public justice and the care of our civil institutions; are peculiarly confined; to uphold and strengthen youthful associations, to live in the hearts of friends and to die on the battlefields of France fighting for the liberty of the world, to pass out amidst such general, deep, unaffected lamentation, surely these are not evidences of a brief existence.

But the pathos of it all is, that as we write his epitaph it must be done in "thoughts that breathe and words that burn," that "as Christ died to make men happy," so he died to make men free and the personal touch we must give to it is this, "he died for me."

It is a grand thing to serve one's country. There is not an Englishman whose heart does not thrill at the name of Havelock, brave for Christ and brave for the English Government. When there was a difficult point to take the officers would say, "Bring out the saints of old Havelock." I think if Paul had gone into military service he would have eclipsed the heroism of the Caesars and the Alexanders and the Napoleons of the world by his bravery and enthusiasm. There is a time to be at peace and there is a time where a Christian has to fight. I do not know of a grave or braver thing than for a young man, when it is demanded of him, to turn to his country, go forth to camp and field and carnage and martyrdom.

Such was the spirit of our gallant young hero, Capt. Reuben Hutchcraft, Jr. Ever ready to answer his country's call. Never swerving from the path of duty. And at last giving his life in service for others.

The loving son, the gentle brother, the loyal friend, the Christian statesman, the gallant soldier is dead! Dead? Oh, no, not dead. He lives, and it seems to me as if I could almost see him standing this afternoon on the battlements of glory, waving in triumph, calling down to us through this quiet Sunday afternoon, and we wave back to him, hail ransomed spirit, hallelujah!

O, bereft souls, be comforted! To have had such a son and such a brother and such a friend is honor enough for one family.

I am confident that when you pass over the river he will be waiting for you. Waiting at the foot of the throne, waiting under the tree of life, waiting on the banks of the river and the grief and sorrow of to-day will be swallowed up in the joy of that reunion and heavenly reception. Until then, oh blessed spirit of Capt. Hutchcraft, farewell! We can afford to wait for such a grand reunion.

In the present imperfect condition of human nature truth almost continually forbids us to give expression to feelings of admiration and love and forces us to dispense our praise with a great deal of restraint and measured liberality. What a comfort to meet a character like this whose merit spares us the pain of making deductions from its virtues.

He leaves us higher consolation than any dying statement which he might have made in the memory of his blameless and well-spent life.

One day we shall lift a monument to mark his last resting place in our silent city of the dead—perhaps a plain white shaft. Deep cut in its marble side will be his name, dear to you above the names of men—the name of a brave and gallant soldier who died for a noble cause. And not for all the glories of this world would you exchange the heritage he has left you in his soldier's death. To the foot of that shaft the children and grandchildren by that name shall go to reverence him who ennobled their name with his heroic blood. And speaking from the shadow of that memory which you honor as you do nothing else on earth, let me say, that the cause in which he suffered and for which he gave his life was the cause of God and the cause of humanity and the omniscient God by his almighty hand in the use of such gallant heroes has swept the last vestige of autocracy from this earth forever and the democracies of the world are saved from the wreck of war.

O, lofty Spirit of earth! The soul of Captain Reuben Brent Hutchcraft surpassing these great ones who toiled for fame and place and honors. Should it ever be our good fortune to behold those elect heroes, Paul and Savonarola and Luther, with all the poets and reformers and philanthropists, perhaps not far from Him whose name is above every name we shall see our battle-scarred hero who lost life for the oppressed nations of earth, but whose name glows with the brightness of the firmament and shines like the stars forever and ever.

Here's the big work, little cost tractor—the Titan

THE Titan 10-20 has been on the market for years, and has made good without reservation. 10 horsepower at the draw bar—20 horsepower at the belt.

A well-balanced tractor that is suited to all farm power work. It drives easily, affords maximum pulling power for its weight, and is suited in every way to the general run of farm work. Not too large for the small farm, yet large enough to handle a great volume of work.

Use it with an Oliver Plow—

We recommend that you use an Oliver plow with your Titan tractor because it means the best plowing under all conditions. The combined rolling coupler and jointer buries all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow; the stop device maintains an even depth of furrow; the plow points enter and leave the ground first, making it possible to plow clear to the ends of the field; and the trip rope control operates easily from the driver's seat on the tractor.

We have a full line of Oliver plows as well as the Titan tractor here at our salesroom.

(C-14) EDGAR HURST.

The Peoples Grocery was broken into Saturday night, and a small sum of money taken from the cash drawer. The thieves entered the building after smashing the glass in the front door. An effort was made to enter the safe, which was ineffectual. The Mulliken bloodhounds, at Lexington, were sent for early Sunday morning. The tracks for a time in front of the building were thoroughly distinct. A light snow covered the ground, which, however, melted before the bloodhounds could reach here, hence the trail was not prosecuted. Had it not been for this the thief could have been easily trailed.
